Structured for Healthcare Providers

Bridging People, Business & Technology
for Better Health

Structured helps healthcare providers improve clinical and business performance

Hospitals, physicians and medical practices face increasing pressure to control costs, improve the quality of care and elevate patient safety.

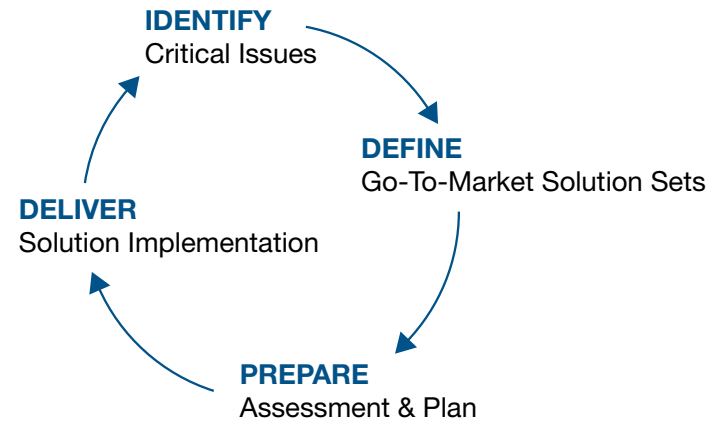

Healthcare organizations like yours are making significant investments in technologies like electronic medical records (EMR), diagnostic imaging, and point-of-care charge capture. They also need traditional information technology solutions like secure infrastructure, voice and mobility technology, and servers and storage.

Business concerns and increasing regulatory oversight are also forcing healthcare organizations to improve their information integrity. One bad piece of information can make the difference between a good patient outcome and a bad one, or between business success and business failure.
