Where great service meets great technology

Innovative technology solutions and services for your business
Solutions and Services that Support Your Mission

At Structured, our job is to invest the expertise we’ve acquired over the past 20 years in order to help you stay ahead of the increasingly rapid technology development curve. That’s where you need to be to ensure that technology supports your organization’s mission. Our technology professionals are objective, they’re independent and they’re critical. This provides our clients with an unobstructed view of the points where technology and business objectives intersect. It’s a view that’s essential to making strategic, informed investments, and it’s a view we’re committed to preserving on behalf of each and every one of the organizations with which we partner.

Keeping You Ahead of the Curve

Whether you’re answering calls for help or answering to the board of directors, our mission is to partner with you so that every time a challenge comes your way, it’s addressed with the backing of some of the most seasoned technology professionals in the industry.

Seeing the World Through Your Eyes

Technology today is more than a component. It’s a driver of success. Not surprisingly, technology companies offer more choices than ever before, but the options are overwhelming. That’s why when you partner with Structured, you’re partnering with a team of technology professionals who have dedicated their careers to staying on top of the most important technology trends, getting to the bottom of business challenges and identifying innovative solutions. You’re partnering with technology professionals hired for their proven skill in breaking technology down to its most basic components and then putting it back together according to the client’s unique requirements.

Most importantly, you’re partnering with a team of technology professionals assembled over our 20-year history, one whose scope, breadth and expertise has evolved by partnering closely with innovative organizations that have kept up with the advances in technology. We put that experience to work for you by honestly assessing both where you are and where you want to be. And we use it to partner with you to develop an IT strategy that simultaneously maximizes your IT investment while minimizing the risk of making it.
“Structured does a great job of staying on top of new developments and being advisors on new technology. They understand our needs, the risks we’re willing to take and make the right recommendations.”

— CIO, PacificSource
“I have to take my hats off to the engineers – they’re the best and the most dedicated. Last night, a Structured engineer was working with one of my guys past midnight and stopped by my office at 8am to let me know what was going on. Quality is the hallmark of Structured.”

— VP of IT, North Coast Electric

Why Structured? Because we deliver.

WE KNOW TECHNOLOGY.
We were born with a love for technology scripted into our DNA. That’s why we’re dedicated to reaching our own conclusions about how well one product or service works with others, or on its own. We compare, we analyze, and when it comes to testing and exploring we are relentless. And we’re critical when we evaluate technology, because when you’re on the line for delivering the best, we’re right there on that line with you.

WE KNOW THE VENDORS.
Behind every solution delivered by Structured are the long-standing partnerships we have built with the top-tier technology vendors. For your business, these partnerships mitigate overall risks with a higher level of engineering, a deeper knowledge of standards, best practices and reference architecture and the confidence that comes with knowing your technology has been vetted and proven by world-class technology vendors. And should you encounter issues along the way, Structured leverages its partnerships with these vendors to resolve them quickly and completely.

WE KNOW YOUR BUSINESS.
As a living entity your business evolves as rapidly as the technology serving it. And as a company that realizes that behind every successful IT implementation there is a successful business strategy, vision and mission, we know the right questions to ask. Most importantly, we know how to listen to get to the right answers.

YOU CAN COUNT ON US.
To us, responding doesn’t mean simply answering the phones and replying to email. It means knowing who you are. It means working in a close partnership defined and driven by your goals, your challenges and your definition of success. While the technology has changed over the past two decades we’ve been working with it, our adherence to delivering absolute quality has not.
